

Here are 7 websites that will teach you more than a $100000 degree.

1. The Open University

As its name suggests, you can take any course you want, on whichever topic you want, for free.

2. Class Central

This is my favorite one. You can search specifically for courses that will give you free certificates, and it has every course you can think of.

3. Google Digital Garage

Yes, Google has a wide range of free courses and resources to learn many things such as digital marketing, coding, etc.

Learn the skills of the future

Accelerate your career or business with an online digital skills course in everything from marketing to coding and beyond.

4. Khan Academy

Khan Academy is the first website I used to learn new skills, such as coding, computer science, etc. It has a ton of free materials for you to become smarter.

Why Khan Academy works

Personalized learning

Students practice at their own pace, first filling in gaps in their understanding and then accelerating their learning.

Trusted content

Created by experts, Khan Academy's library of trusted practice and lessons covers math, science, and more. Always free for learners and teachers.

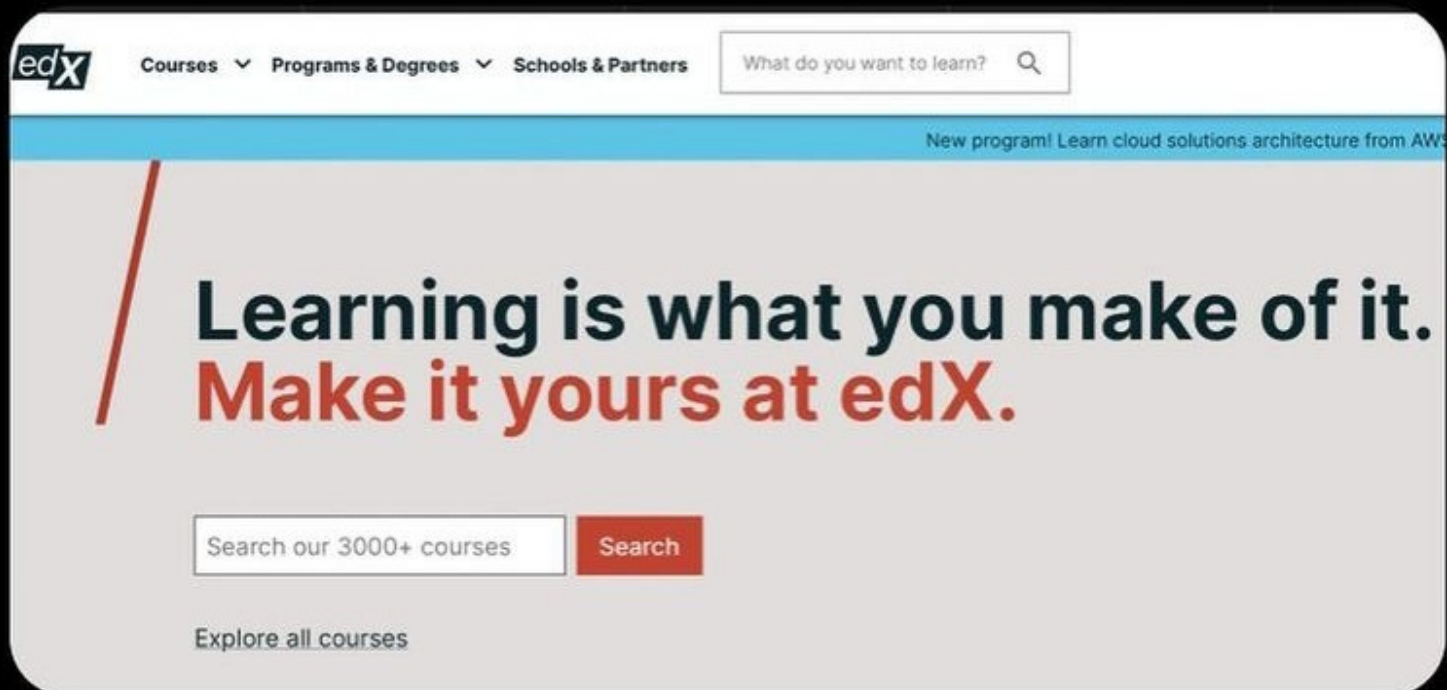

Tools to empower teachers

With Khan Academy, teachers can identify gaps in their students' understanding, tailor instruction, and meet the needs of every student.

5. edX

edX is probably the most popular website off this list. It has courses from big universities such as Harvard, Stanford, MIT, and a lot more.

6. Udemy

Many people know Udemy as a website only with paid courses, but it also has a ton of great value with free courses.

Free online courses to achieve your goals

Looking to add new skills? Is there a hobby you've wanted to try? We're Udemy, a leading destination for learning and teaching online.

If you're new to online learning and not sure where to start, you're not alone. We've curated a free collection of courses for professionals.

Take one of these courses and learn new skills (on us).
